Immerse yourself in a uniquely New Zealand learning experience during a six-week, credit-bearing programme. There are three to choose from!

The University of Auckland offers three, unique study options as part of the 2014 Winter Programme each combining classroom learning with practical, field-based study.

These programmes run from 16 June – 25 July 2014.

Whether you're interested in New Zealand film and television, archaeology or marine science and environmental field studies – there is a short course to suit you.

Spaces are limited and entry prerequisites apply.
